DEFINITION OF TEACHING STATIONS

Teaching stations are classroom spaces that are used or were designed for use as instructional space. These are permanent or relocatable facilities that are either owned, rented, leased or on lease-purchase by the district. Classroom space generally includes the following:

- standard classrooms
- industrial arts/art rooms
- business education labs
- science labs
- homemaking labs
- special education classrooms
- music classrooms

The following spaces are not considered teaching stations:

- Trailers defined as having a trailer tongue and/or one or more axles.
- Facilities which house Adult Education, Regional Occupational Program or Child Day Care when purchased with special override taxes, federal funds, local funds or specific State funds.

Note: Continuation High School classroom needs will be determined on an individual basis.
